

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for coupling a peripheral device to a host comprising an interface circuit and a logic circuit. The interface circuit may be configured to (i) receive a request from the host and (ii) present a response to the host. The logic circuit may be configured to (i) generate the response when the request is serviceable by the apparatus or (ii) pass the request to an external circuit when the request is not serviceable by the apparatus.